Do We Have a Collegiate Atmosphere at P. U. C. C.

EDITORIAL EXAMINATION

(ACP)—Editors of the Southern Illinois University's EGYPTIAN began the year by stating their veiw of what a newspaper is.

What is a newspaper?

A disseminator of happenings, an advertising medium for business houses.

A newspaper is both of these, plus a number of things. But above all, it is a free voice.

People may disagree as to what a paper should do, but most will agree that a paper must be free. No one denies that freedom can be abused. Nevertheless, freedom must be qualified, if it need be, by truth, decency and high ideals.

In the pursuit of our goals, we are not infallible. When commenting editorially we believe we are right. And because we were free to voice our opinion, this same freedom which applies to us also applies to our readers who are free to draw their own conclusions.

Journalistic freedom on the campus means a newspaper with an opinion, a living newspaper—not a tool for a few, but a mirror for all, an independent voice reaching out to everyone.

STUDENT HANDBOOK HAS THE ANSWERS

The Purdue Calumet Center Student Handbook has been revised for the 1957-1958 academic year and is now available for distribution. Suggestion: When you get your copy, slip it right into the three-ring binder you'll carry with you for class note-taking.

The handbook is worth keeping, for it is a mine of needful information. Do you want to know what student activities are available here? Or what scholarship funds have been set up to help students meet their educational expenses? Or what academic regulations you will be held responsible for knowing and observing? Would you like to know something of the history of Purdue University and of its Calumet Center which you are now attending? Could you use some tips on campus customs and etiquette?

All these items, and many others, are in the handbook. Read through it carefully; save yourself time and worry by learning the ropes at once. Remember, it contains authoritative answers to your questions. Why wonder; why grope? Why blunder; why be a dope? Consult that grand book, the Student Handbook.

FACULTY NOTES

The students and faculty extend their sympathy to Mr. John Hale upon the loss of his wife last month. Mr. Hale is our highly respected building custodian who has been here since our present Center was opened in 1950.

On Sunday, November 10th at 8:00 a.m., Mr. Gallett, one of PUCC's instructors, became the father of a 8 lb., 8½ oz. girl. The Galletts named the new addition Julia and plan to call her Jill for short.

Student-Faculty Forum

The lecture committee has been considering the possibility of introducing a series of student-faculty discussion periods. Their purpose would be to enable students and faculty to exchange ideas and concepts about any topics students would care to discuss.

At each period there would be a group of three staff members to participate in this discussion. They would be there as individuals with their own ideas about the topics being discussed. They would not necessarily be officially representing the views or policies of Purdue University. One of the staff members present would act as a moderator. He would have the authority to control the discussion so that it would remain reasonably within the boundaries of the topic under consideration and remain intellectual as opposed to emotional.

The topics would be selected by the students through a suggestion box in the student lounge. The topics as suggested would be subject to review by the lecture committeess before inclusion in the agenda.

The next meeting, which is slated for Wednesday, November 27, from 12:00 to 1:00 p.m. in room 111, will be to explain in more detail this discussion series, to determine if there is enough interest, and, if time permits, to start a discussion.

This lecture series will give the students of P.U.U.C. the opportunity to air their troubles and to present new ideas to the faculty. The faculty will then be able to visualize how the students feel.

A notice will be sent around to all staff members to excuse students early from their previous classes if they are interested in attending this event.

If you are at all interested in what is going on at this school, it woud be wise to attend these meetings.

YELL LEADERS

Leading yells for P.U.C.C. this year will be Joyce Nemeth, Mary Haburay, Annette Miller, Lee Sorensen, John Heing, and Fred Newton. Every day they have been practicing at the Armory perfecting new yells.

They are planning to wear white sweaters with a gold and black emblem and white slacks and skirts.

Let's all support the team and yell leaders by showing up at the games.

Your Horoscope

Today—The stars predict many important events, so take careful note. First of all, it seems that the morning will start very early, and later on in the day, you will find yourself in the afternoon. Still later on, take care, for it will get very dark and you will be very sleepy. Our advice would be for you go to bed. During the day, try to see and think clearly. Try not to get into trouble. Also, try to eat and breathe, and most of all, stay alive.

Today, to all people who have birthdays, all we have to say to you is "Happy Birthday!"

Today, for all, we predict that your future lies ahead of you, although your past is behind.

Council Discusses Lounge and Parking Problems

At the latest Student Council meeting, on November 6, many problems of the students were discussed and hashed over by your student council.

The council has several standing committees touching on all aspects of the students life here at the Center. Below you will find listed the committees concerning your immediate problems. Your suggestions, help, and aid are wanted and needed. Contact the committee chairman of the group you are interested in, or leave a note in Room 5. Remember, this is OUR council.

1. Parking Committee:
   Glenn Simpson, Chairman
   Members:
   Walter Pehlen
   Bob Suter

We definitely have parking problems. What happened to the parallel parking? Watch the bulletin board in the Lounge for petitions on postponement of the enforcement of Parallel Parking.

2. Lounge Committee:
   Rob Svetovich, Chairman

What is wrong with us that we can't keep our own lounge looking neat and tidy? Is it really us, or is someone else sneaking into our lounge and messing it up? Rob will have that answer for you shortly.

3. Social Committee:
   Bob Foster, chairman

Bob sees to it that there are enough functions going on, so everyone will get a chance to attend at least one function. The Christmas Formal, set for December 21, is now in the planning stage. This is the biggest dance of the year, and everyone who attends really has a ball. Now Bob needs help on this committee; so see him or drop him a note.

4. Special Attendance Committee:
   Rob Svetovich, Chairman
   Members:
   Bob Foster
   Lee Sorensen
   Phil Szpiech
   Walter Pehlen

The primary purpose of this committee is to increase the attendance at our basketball games. Surprise pep rallies are scheduled for a noon hour, bonfires before games, and sock hops after the games are being planned. Look for clues on the walls of the lounge as to when these will all take place.

5. Publicity Committee:
   Walter Pehlen, Chairman

This committee is responsible for letting it be known to everyone that all social functions are here at the center. If you have any new, different, or old forgotten ideas, see the above committee.

Why don't we have more activities here at the Center? Why don't we feel that we are members of Purdue University? Why isn't there a collegiate atmosphere at the Center? These and many more questions were asked of the members at the Student-Faculty meeting last October 23.

The students and faculty which represented the Campus were Sue Duncan, President of the Office of Student Services; Dwight Abbot, Chief Justice of the Student Court; Bud Smith, President of the student body; O. D. Roberts, Dean of Men; B. J. Pershing, Comptroller's Representative; T. P. Morrissey, Auditor Student Org.; Helen Schleman, Dean of Women; Phillip Szpiech, President of Student Senate; Lee Sorensen, BOILERMAKER Editor; Bob Foster, Social Chairman; Karen Daniel, Treasurer of Student Senate; Millard E. Gyte, Director of the Center; Coach Hayes; Mr. Combs; Dr. Wilson; Dr. Cone; and Mrs. Cone represented the Center.

The members from the Campus were wondering why a collegiate atmosphere does not prevail here at the Center. The reply was that the students at the Center do not feel as though they are members of Purdue University. Instead, they feel that the Center is more like a jumping-off place or a Junior College than a regular University.

The committee suggested that in order to establish a collegiate atmosphere here at the Center might institute some sort of organization which would be similar to those which are on the Campus. Sue Duncan suggested that we might start some organization which would be like their O. S. S. Such an organization would catalogue the participation and abilities of any student who took part in school activities. These records would be transferred to the Campus when the student transfers there.

The committee wondered if it would be feasible to institute a Student Activities fee here at the center. The members of the board from the Center agreed that such a fee would give the students an idea of the magnitude of the activities and social events which are presented here. This fee would be used to help support a variety of student activities including athletics, newspaper, student social events, assembly activities, and similar events.

These new activities which are now being planned will offer to the students the opportunity of becoming a leader. This leadership training plays a vital role in one's future life.

Editor's Note:

The students who have been working on these projects do not have enough help to sufficiently organize these activities. If you would like to start a club of your own or help organize those already planned, see Lee Sorensen or Phil Szpiech.

Assembly Plans Told

The biggest assembly of the semester is now being planned by the Student Council. This will be the Christmas Assembly, which is tentatively set for December 18, during the lunch hour. Lee Sorensen is in charge of assembling all of the talent to be used this year. This includes singing, comedy acts, dancing, etc. Lee's assistants are Rob Svetovich and Walter Pehlen.

Anyone who wants to work on any and all parts of the program, even though he or she is not a Council member, can do so by seeing one of the above three people as soon as possible.

Basketball Tickets

Yes, the season tickets are on sale. They can be bought in Southworth's or from any of the members on the committee of the Student Council.

You might keep it in mind that tickets for the bus to Joliet can also be bought from "Coach." These tickets will be sold to fill the bus which will carry the basketball team and and the yell leaders. There are only 23 seats left so you had better get on the ball—I mean ball, because that is what it will be.

Many Opportunities In Medical Technology

Have you ever heard of a medical technologist? Most people when they hear the word "hospital" immediately think of doctors and nurses. Actually, some of the other people who work in hospitals perform a function which is also of utmost importance to the patient. These are the medical technologists, who are trained to execute the many tests which make it possible for the physician to make a proper diagnosis and to give the patient the proper treatment. The physician depends on reports from the laboratory which require routine, careful, and accurate work on the part of a trained medical technologist. It is difficult to imagine how a physician could get along without the tests that the medical technologist perform, so routine has it become for certain tests to be made on the patients brought into the hospital for treatment or surgery.

Not all medical technologists are employed in hospital laboratories. They may work in public health laboratories, in clinics, in the doctor's office, or in medical schools. There is an expanding demand and good employment opportunities for medical technologists who come from approved schols or who are all-around experienced workers with a college background. At the present time there are approximately 29,000 medical technologists, and there is an estimated need for 45,000 by 1960.

College Spirit

What is college spirit? Do you have any? Are you an active individual in college life? You should be. College is a place where many types of people unite in one main goal, to secure an education to be used in later life. While in college, however, a student should not let his academic pursuits be his only activity. Being alone in college is no fun, but becoming an active student can be profitable as well as enjoyable.

Becoming acquainted with people with different backgrounds is a way to understand students, as well as to gain friends. Each student is a different individual, and something is to be learned from him. One student can learn much from a cross section of students. He can come to understand why other students think and act differently from himself.

Taking a part in college activities is an important step in college life. At school events, such as dances and picnics, a student can drop his academic problems for a while and think of himself as a person in a student society. A social event is the chance for a student to let himself go, a chance to let the others know what kind of person he really is.

College is a place for freedom, so take advantage of it. Supporting your athletic team is a tradition in college. Purchasing tickets to athletic events gives our teams financial support, and attending games and rooting for the team gives the team moral support. At our center we have competitive teams for basketball and baseball. Neither has received the proper amount of student support. Attend the games; let the team know that you are backing it.

Finally, remember that this is your college; you, the student, make your college life what it is. As adult individuals you should know how to act in a college community. Strive in every way to improve yourself and your college. Be proud to say that you are a Purdue University student.

Freshman's parent to faculty member: "My, this campus has really grown since I was here. How many students does Tech have now?"

Faculty member: "Oh, about one in 100, I'd say."

Purdue Technical Institute Banquet

Louis Davidson, Assistant Superintendent of Labor Relations, at Inland Steel Company in his speech reviewed the Techincal Institute movement both nationally and locally. Some 32 alumni covering the years 1946-1957 were present.

Officers elected for the 1957-1958 years were:

Frances Zellner—Chairman
Louis Delgado—Vice Chairman
Paul Stahura—Secretary-Treas.
Charles Lannin—Pub. Relations.
Kenneth Blank—Publicity.

The next meeting is scheduled for mid-February.

THE CIRCLE "K" NEWS

So what's new with the Circle "K"? That's an interesting question which we hope to answer in a line or two.

On Wednesday, October 30, 1957, at 12:00 in Room 16, twenty-two fortunate students saw the movie "The All-Star Browns Football Game of '56." The movie had been filmed under the auspices of the Chicago Tribune Charities. It was a very good movie of the game. We are sorry you missed it.

At our regular meeting on Wednesday, November 6, 1957, William G. Diehl was elected president. An intervening class at 1:00 p.m. interfered with the rest of the election of officers. The election of officers and committee chairmen will be completed in our next meeting on November 14, 1957.

During the meeting of November 6, a proposal came up to change our meeting day to a different day. The proposal was made because of a conflict in interests on Wednesday. A committee composed of "Rich" Baltrus, Tom Feeney and Claire Minich was selected to check on this proposal. It was tentatively agreed that we would meet Thursday noon from now on in Room 4.

A Chem Aide group is being set up on Wednesday noons in an effort to help students with their Chemistry problems. "Doc" Schlosser has volunterred to answer all Chem problems asked. Even if one's question is not answered, the aide section will be of value in fostering one's understanding of chemistry.

The Circle "K" hopes to be able, within three or four weeks, to present a special lecture-movie period on Nuclear Physics. We hope to be able to have someone here from the Commonwealth Edison Nuclear-Electricity Plant for that period. As many of you know, the Commonwealth Edison Company is setting up a plant southwest of Chicago to generate electricity from Atomic Fission.

The Circle "K" is endeavoring to set up a tour through Standard Oil soon. Those that went on a similar tour last winter said it was interesting and worthwhile. Standard Oil Company really went out of their way to answer every question asked and to make the tour informative.

We also hope to set up a tour through a steel mill or Continental Foundry in East Chicago. This tour would be set up for the Christmas Holidays.

A hayride or sleigh-ride is in the planning stages of the Circle "K." We would like to sponsor this as soon as possible.

The question now is this: How badly do you, the student body, want these forementioned events staged? All events hang on the support and interest of the Calumet Center students. You can show your interest and support in a very positive way. That is, attend the Circle "K" meetings. Your presence will show your support and interest in the Circle "K" program, and your voiced suggestions will be warmly received.

DAFFYNITIONS . . .

Wolf: A big dame hunter who enjoys life, liberty and the happiness of pursuit.

Age: Something people have no respect for unless its bottled.

Censor: He sticks his no's in other people's business.

Optimist: Puts 3c stamp on a letter marked air mail.

Jury: 12 men deciding who is the best lawyer.

DID YOU KNOW . . .

. . . that everyone had a good but chilly time at the weinie roast. It was sponsored by the Student Council and held Saturday, October 26, in Jurgensen's Woods in Lansing, Illinois.

. . . that those attending the weinie roast were Karen Daniel, Lee Sorensen, Phil Spziech, Bernardine Baum, Lorrie Amidei, Tom Feeney, Jan Searls, Ed Birt, Bob Foster, Joyce Nemeth, Eileen Hantz, Joe Kubisz, Rob Svetovich, Dorothy McSwiggen, Judy Cavenaugh, Bob Goodman, Joe Dulla, Richard Baltrus, Jim Della Rocco, Jim Pleuns, and Marge Mikulski. Also there were Dr. and Mrs. Wilson and their two daughters, and Dr. and Mrs. Cone and their two young children.

Dear Stickyfingers

Being a gambler, I will take a chance and try to answer the question of the semester: Why does PUCC have social functions? The Student Council has sponsored several social functions that were poorly attended. It did seem, however, that there was always the same group of people enjoying themselves. I don't think that the social activities were meant to be kept a secret, but according to the turnout, well, they surely must have been.

College is supposed to prepare the individual for later life. This later life will not only include things learned in the classroom, but how we behave in society. These social functions give us a perfect opportunity to learn how to act so that we will be able to assume a leading part in the future.

Most men have a little gambling blood in them, and they never pass up a sure thing. If you want a place to take that gal of yours for a good time, a PUCC social function would be a sure thing. As my pap always used to say, "Never bet on an inside straight, and never refuse a woman a date."

MIST

His life is as deeply encased
As a blackboard newly erased.
Revealing small broken parts
Entangling both our hearts.

He says that he understands
What is clasped within our hands.
Has he really ever thought
What is so and what is not?

Was I really meant to be
Of the many meant for such as he?
Does he say what he means to,
Really means to say, "I do?"

Or is he lost
At some great cost?
Puzzled am I
That I do cry.

Am I mere child
Whom He has beguiled?

PUCC's Unknown Author

Dear Betty

I've been here at the center for a month now, and I like it pretty well. You know how disappointed I was when I didn't get to go to campus. I don't feel as badly now because it's better than I expected. We don't have the activities and closeness of campus life, but there are a few events to sort of liven up my life around here. The only thing that annoys me is the fact that the activities which are held here are not attended by a large majority of the students. It seems that they find it hard to break away from their former ties at high school. I think they should realize that this is a college and that this is the place where they will be laying the foundations of their later lives.

It seems to me that a lot of the students are afraid to meet new people. You know what I mean. Remember when I was down there last weekend and everyone was so nice and friendly? The thing I can remember best is when I was in the dorm and a few of your girl friends came in to talk to you. They took time out to introduce themselves to me. I sure wish that this feeling of being of one body prevailed here at PUCC.

Everyone raves about the 25 to 1 ration here, but things aren't as good as they seem. There is only a small group of boys who will have anything to do with us girls. The rest of them seem to be nice, but all they do is look at us when we come into the lounge. Maybe they are afraid of girls. Anyway, they sure act like it.

As ever,
Muggalottie

SURPRISE ALOHA

(ACP)—A surprise trip to Hawaii was "awarded" Occidental college freshman class president Bill Paden during hazing at the Los Angeles school. Reported the OCCIDENTAL, 50 sophomores kidnapped the freshman leader as he left a class, told him he had a one-way ticket to Honolulu and put him on a plane with a stack of literature on Hawaii.

The airlines made him their guest (for two hours) on the Islands, then put him on a plane for home.

Lance Unlimited

By Lance Kapers

Dear Mr. Kapers:

I think my 200 lb. 16-year-old son is becoming a juvenile delinquent—he actually took the family car without permission. How do you suggest I punish him—with force?

A weak 120 lb. father

Dear Daddio:

Force will not work. Here are my suggestions—they won't work either!

1. Cut out all raw meat from his diet.
2. When not using the car, take out the distributor head and keep it in your pocket. If sonny buys his own distributor head, sell him the car.
3. If the situation becomes desperate—and it may—run away from home!

Dear Lance:

I just bought a new Chevy, but my girl's parents won't let her go out with me when I've got the car. They just don't trust my driving. What should I do?

Monty The Make-Out

Dear Monty:

It's not your driving they don't trust; it's your parking!

Dear Lance:

I have a roadster with a 3.5 to 1 rear-end ration, but every time I shift into second, my transmission falls out. What do you suggest?

The Rod

Dear Rod:

Have you ever heard of a clutch? Drip Daddy, like dig!

Last dark in the park me and my Jill were out on a hill near the joint on the point. We were among the squares who swarmed in pairs romping and stomping and playing the game although none of us had fame. Then through the slammer, a cat from Alabama fell in like mad, although a star was all he had. You could dig by his rig he was a natural flirt, and you could gim the lipstick on the collar of his shirt. His gims were cool behind his midnight dimmers (You should have dug those frantic glimmers.) My Jill became shrill when he spieled out loud to draw a crowd: "I never quit on the scene without hitting the finest queen!" Well, this hick took my chick. I'm really head-whaling and dead end sailing into the situation for cool information.

The Kat from Way Back

Dear Kat:

Nasty Break!

Dear Lance:

My girlfriend is always complaining about the way I dress. How can I convince her that any day now, knickers will be back in style?

Harry Leggs

Dear Harold:

Since I'm knock-kneed, I'm on her side.

Dear Lance:

I want more than anything to be an egineer, but I keep tripping over my slide rule. What do you think I should do?

Pi

Dear 3.14 (approx.):

1. Wear it round your neck.
2. Leave it at home.
3. Saw it in half and mulitply all your calculations by two.

Dear Lance:

What do you think of high heels and earrings for a casual date?

Eloise

Dear Eloise:

Personally, I prefer girls.

Dear Lance:

I am really in a mess. People always invite me over to fumigate their homes. Even my best friend told me. What should I do?

A P. U. Student

Dear P. U.

I must admit your letter affected me more than any of the others. Phew! Have you tried the latest fad—bathing?

Dear Lance:

Every time I write you a letter, you never print it. This time I'm not going to write one.

S. Maughan

Dear Summer:

. . . and I'm still not going to print it!

Dear Bubbles:

I will not print your letter. You really have a problem. I am unable to answer you without a personal inerview.

Purdue Personalities .

One of the better half of this year's freshman class is Joyce Nemeth. Joyce comes to Purdue after graduation from Hammond Morton High.

While she was attending Morton, she was active in both their Choir and Theater Guild. Besides this, she also maintained a very good scholastic record.

Here at Purdue, Joyce is studying Home Ec and majoring in interior decorating, a field in which she believes self-expression is vital for the best result.

Joyce is a member of the BOILERMAKER staff and is a Freshman representative of the Student Senate. Along with liking to play miniature golf and taking long walks, she enjoys writing poems. Joyce also likes to wear lots of frilly petticoats "and things."

Joyce also enjoys a good laugh. And, when she insn't calorie-counting (she dosen't have to, really) she enjoys eating cream puffs and coffee.

Since Joyce is a yell leader this year, there will probably be a good turnout for the basketball games. Joyce says that nothing would make her happier than to have a big turnout for these games.

Fred: My father told me never to go to a burlesque house or I'd see something I shouldn't.

Jim: Did you go anyway?

Fred: Sure.

Jim: What did you see?

Fred: My father.

Please don't hug me—I'm going steady.

That's a name that almost everyone has heard around PUCC whether you're in the lounge, cafetreia, Room 5, or just the washrooms. Yes, word really gets around about a guy like Bob Foster. Just what the word is, I can't say here, but it really gets around.

Bob was born in Hammond (funny things don't always happen in Texas), and when he was two years old, he moved, with the help of his parents, to Dyer. He went to Dyer High and was a three-letter man in baseball, his greatest activity. He participated in almost all social activities.

Bob is the Sophomore Representative at large on our own Student Council and is also Social Chairman. Bob is also a three-letter man here at PUCC—I.O.U.

He is studying electrical engineering and next year we will find him, if we look, continuing his studies at the University of Africa.

When Bob isn't showing off (yes, there are times) or clowning around, he just loves to eat. There are no special kinds of food. Bob says, "Food is Food, and Food I like!" Besides his dancing which keeps him loaded with money, Bob also likes to play the sax; his neighbors think he hates it the way he plays it.

Trying to describe Bob's personality, I would have to say he is a combination of ZORRO, Maverick and Donald Duck. But Bob is really a great guy. Who can take, and give, a lot of kidding. Bob told me, "Wallie, I don't care if you tell lies about me. Just please don't tell the truth.

Dad: I think I'll go downstairs and send Nancy's boy friend home.

Mom: Now, Dad, remember the way we used to court.

Dad: I hadn't thought of that. I know I'd better go down and send him home.

Junior: Mama, Mama, may I go out and play?

Mama: With those holes in your socks?

Junior: No, with the boy next door.

From the LOCKER ROOM

By Al Jenkins

Well, basketball is just around the corner and the success or failure of this year's PUCC team is entirely up to the players themselves. Their opening game against Joliet the 20th, will show the strength of this team in terms of ability, desire, and fitness. If PUCC wins, they're a lot better ball club than I imagined.

PUCC's first home game has been changed both in dates and in opponents. The 5th Army, instead of Chanute Air Base, will invade the Armory November 21 instead of November 22 as listed on the schedule.

A Turkey Run is being put on again this year by Coach Hayes. Running time for all you jumping rabbits will be 4:00 p.m., November 22. The course will be like a cross country venture with the meet starting and ending at the shed on the athletic field across from the main building. First prize will be a turkey, followed by a chicken (prize, that is); third place will have a "T" shirt; fourth place, a pair of sweat socks and fifth place will get an egg (how he'll get it I don't know). Registration will take place between November 11 and November 22 through Coach Hayes.

BEEF and CORN

Mr. Dwyer: What holds up the moon?

Joe Kubisz: Moonbeams.

Mr. Dwyer: Right.

Jim Hoffman: I spent eight hours over my math book last night.

Mr. Pritchard: Eight hours?

Jim Hoffman: Yes, I left it under my bed when I went to sleep.

Rob Svetovich: My ambition in life is to remain a bachelor and see that all of my sons do too.

Joe College: I saw our absent-minded physics professor going around and round in a revolving door.

Jim Martin: What was his trouble?

Joe College. He couldn't remember whether he was going in or out.

INEVITABLE VOICE

(ACP)—The LEADER, newspaper for Teachers college, Fredonia, N.Y., says this happened there:

The other day the psych class lecture was on job aptitudes.

The prof finished, "The point is, a good poker player can hold down any sort of an executive position. Now then, are there any questions?"

Came the voice from the back of the room, "What would a good poker player want with a job anyway?"
